About the Cedarburg Performing Arts Center

Opened in 2000, the Cedarburg Performing Arts Center (CPAC) was created to bring residents of Cedarburg and the surrounding Ozaukee County an authentic, high-quality theater-going experience.

Since its doors first opened, the CPAC has welcomed a wide range of productions—from classic plays to innovative new works—continuing a long tradition of celebrating the performing arts. As theater has evolved over time, so has CPAC, growing and adapting to offer fresh, exciting programs for audiences of all ages, including our vibrant CPACKids productions.

Live performance remains at the heart of our mission. It is a place where imagination is sparked, creativity is nurtured, and communities come together.

Why Live Performance Matters

Attending live theater is more than entertainment—it's an essential part of learning, growing, and participating in the arts. Children who experience and engage with live performance gain gifts that last a lifetime:

Benefits of Live Performance for Children & Families

- Builds Creativity: Seeing stories come alive onstage helps children imagine new possibilities.
- Encourages Empathy: Live theater lets audiences step into someone else's shoes in real time.
- Boosts Focus & Listening Skills: Performances teach children to watch, listen, and engage actively.
- Strengthens Community: Sharing a story together creates meaningful shared experiences.
- Supports Confidence: Watching peers perform inspires children to try new things themselves.

Learning Theater Etiquette

Attending live theater also teaches children lifelong skills—including how to behave respectfully and thoughtfully in a shared public space.

Children learn:

- How to be an attentive audience member
- When to clap
- How to enter and exit a theater politely
- How to show appreciation for performers
- That their presence contributes to the magic of the show
- What a Standing Ovation Is: A standing ovation is when audience members rise to their feet while applauding at the end of a performance.
- Why & When to Give a Standing Ovation: It is a special way to show deep appreciation when a performance is truly outstanding, moving, or exceptionally well done. While applause is always welcome, a standing ovation is reserved for moments that feel extraordinary—when the audience collectively feels inspired, impressed, or emotionally touched.

Understanding proper manners and etiquette helps them develop social awareness and confidence in new settings.

Join Us for an Unforgettable Season!

CPACKids is thrilled to continue our mission of providing young performers and their families meaningful, creative, and community-building theater experiences. We can't wait to see you at the Cedarburg Performing Arts Center for a season filled with imagination, music, and the joy of live performance.
